

THE WHITE HOUSE

Office of the Press Secretary

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

October 6, 2009

Readout of the President's call with Armenian
President Sargsian

The President called Armenian President Sargsian yesterday to commend him for his courageous leadership and to encourage continued progress on normalization of relations with Turkey. The President underscored the U.S. position that the normalization talks should move forward without preconditions and within a reasonable timeframe. President Obama pledged his full support for a process that would result in normalization of relations between the two countries and a brighter future for all involved.
